By knowing the teachers' perceptions in writing by using WhatsApp, the researcher expects that the English teachers will be ready to face this perception when they have to have taught online especially through WhatsApp. Also, the researcher expects that the teachers can find out the strategies to face that limitation.

For the students, the researcher hopes this research can give them information about what should be prepared in online learning. Because we may have online teaching and learning process not only in the pandemic situation. But, it is also possible for having online learning in this modern era. So, the students must be ready for it to make the online teaching and learning process run well.
