This research is entitled Agrarian Conflict Resolution in Santoso Region, Palembang City (Case Study of Apparatus and Community in Santoso Region, Sukari Village, Palembang City). The Santoso area is located around the TNI AU Air Base Sri Mulyono Herlambang. According to residents around the beginning of the Santoso settlement, it was around 1959.

This study uses descriptive qualitative research methods and the primary data in this study are from the Santoso Community, Sukarame Village, Palembang City, while the secondary data are books, journals, documentation and information obtained from the community involved in the research problem. The research technique of collecting data is based on the results of observations, documentation, and interviews. The data analysis technique uses qualitative data, namely data reduction, data presentation and drawing verification conclusions.

The results of this thesis research indicate that the resolution of the conflict that occurred after several parties consulted to find the middle way resulted in peace between the Santoso Community and the Indonesian National Army, but what is very unfortunate is that the peace was not carried out on paper and because it was only carried out to the extent Let's just talk, until now the people of Santoso still feel they have not felt complete peace, and are still afraid that this will happen again.
