Willem Iskandar

Willem Iskandar was a famous writer from North Sumatra in Indonesia. He was interested in teaching and learning and he was one of the first Sumatran people to write poems and school-books. Willem Iskandar was born in 1838. His father was the king of a part of Sumatra. When he was a baby, his parents called him Sati. When the first school was opened in his village, Sati was one of the first children to enter it. His school was not a rich school. The building was very small and it had only one teacher. His teacher soon liked Sati because he was a very clever student. Then Mr. Gouden, an important Dutch man in Sumatra, came to visit the school. He saw Sati and was interested in him because he was clever. After the visit he went to see Sati's parents. He wanted Sati to come and live with his family and to learn Dutch and other things with his own children. Sati's parents were happy about this and Sati lived with the Gouden family until he was old enough to start work in an office.

A few years later, when the Gouden family went back to Holland, they asked Sati to go with them. So, in 1854 Sati left for Holland to study there. He was the first person from Sumatra to study in that country. While he was living in Holland, the Dutch king heard about him and one day Sati went to see the king. He was the first person from Sumatra to visit the king. When the king met him, he gave him a new name: Willem Iskandar. When his parents heard about this, they were not very happy because they did not want Sati to forget about his own country. This never happened. After studying in Holland for five years, Willem came back to his own village and got some money to open a high school. This was the first high school in Sumatra. He was the only teacher so he taught all the classes. Willem worked very hard and at the same time he wrote books for his students. After some time, he asked the good students from the higher class to teach the students in the lower class. In this way he taught his students to be teachers. His students later became teachers in many different parts of Sumatra. Willem Iskandar worked for about 15 years and then he was sent again by the Dutch to study in Holland. He met many people and made many friends. After some time he married one of his Dutch friends. After three years the people in Willem's village were happy because he had passed his examinations and he was coming back soon. However, he never went home. Willem Iskandar was ready to go home and had said goodbye to his friends. Then his wife suddenly did not want to go with him. She did not want to leave her country. Willem Iskandar was very sad. He loved his wife but he wanted to go home to his own country. One day, in one of the quiet corners of a beautiful flower garden in Amsterdam he shot himself. Near his body they found a note in Dutch from Willem. Only the word 'Goodbye' was written on it.

Reading Speed test:

Modern Surgery

The need for a surgical operation, especially an emergency operation, almost always comes as a severe shock to the patient and his family. Despite modern advances, most people still have an unreasonable fear of hospitals and anesthetics. Patients do not often believe they really need surgery – cutting into a part of the body as opposed to treatment with drugs.

In the early years of this century there was little specialization in surgery. A good surgeon was capable of performing almost every operation that had been devised up to that time. Today the situation is different. Operations are now being carried out that were not even dreamed of fifty years ago. The heart can be safely opened and its valves repaired. Blocked blood vessels can be cleaned out, and broken ones repaired or replaced. A lung, the whole stomach, or even part of the brain can be removed and still permit the patient to live a comfortable and satisfactory life. However, not every surgeon wants, or is qualified to carry out every type of modern operation.

The scope of surgery has increased remarkably in this century. Its safety has increased too. Deaths from most operations are about 20% of what they were in 1910 and surgery has been extended in many directions, for example to certain types of birth faults in newborn babies, and, at the other end of the scale, to life-saving operations for a person in his eighties. The hospital stay after surgery has been shortened to as little as a week for most major operations. Most patients are out of bed on the day after an operation and may be back at work in two or three weeks.

Many developments in modern surgery are almost incredible. They include the replacement of damaged blood vessels with similar ones made of plastic; the replacement of heart valves with plastic substitutes; the transplanting of tissues (take a tissue or organ from one into another) such as the lens of the eye; the invention of the artificial kidney to clean the blood of urine at regular intervals and the development of heart and lung machines to keep patients alive during very long operations. All these things open a hopeful prospect for the future of surgery.

One of the most revolutionary areas of modern surgery is that of organ transplants. Until a few years ago, no person, except an identical twin, was able to accept into his body the tissues of another person without reacting against them and eventually killing them. Recently, however, it has been discovered that with the use of x-rays and special drugs, it is possible to take tissues from one person to another which will survive for periods of a year or more. Kidneys have been successfully transplanted between non-identical twins. Heart and lung transplants have been reasonably successful in animals, though rejection problems in humans have yet to be solved. 'Spare parts' surgery, the simple routine replacement of all weak and useless organs by new ones, is still a dream of the distant future. As yet, surgery is not ready for such miracles. In the meantime, you can be happy if your doctor says to you, 'Yes, I think it is possible to operate on you for this condition.'

- c) because they do not believe they need anaesthetics.
- d) unless it is an emergency operation.

02. Surgeons in the early years of this century, compared with modern ones...

- a) had less to learn about surgery.
- b) needed more knowledge.
- c) could perform every operation known today.
- d) were more trusted by their patients.

03. Open heart surgery has been possible...

- a) only in the last fifty years.
- b) from prehistoric times.
- c) since the nineteenth century.
- d) since the invention of valves.

04. A patient can still live a comfortable and satisfactory life, even after the removal of...

- a) his brain.
- b) his lungs.
- c) a major organ such as the stomach or one lung.
- d) part of the stomach or the whole liver.

05. Modern surgeons...

- a) do not like to perform operations of the new type.

- b) are not as highly qualified as the older ones.
- c) are obliged to specialize more than their predecessors.
- d) often perform operations which are not really needed.

06. Today, compared with 1910...

- a) five times fewer patients die after being operated on.
- b) 20% fewer of all operation patients die.
- c) 20% of all operation patients recover.
- d) operation deaths have increased by 20%.

07. Some of the more astonishing changes in modern surgery include...

- a) ear, nose and throat transplants.
- b) valveless plastic hearts.
- c) plastic heart valves.
- d) leg transplants.

08. The main difficulty with organ transplants is...

- a) it is difficult to find organs of exactly the same size.
- b) only identical twins can give permission for their organs to be exchanged.
- c) the body's tendency to reject strange tissues.
- d) the patient is not allowed to use drugs after them.

09. 'Spare parts' surgery....

- a) Has yet to become a reality.
- b) Will be available in the near future.
- c) Is only possible for animals.
- d) Has been replaced by modern drug treatments.

10. You can be happy if your surgeon can operate because it means...

- a) he thinks your condition may be curable.
- b) he is a good doctor.
- c) he knows you will survive.
- d) you are getting better already

SURAT KETERANGAN PERUBAHAN JUDUL SKRIPSI

NOMOR : B-7575/Un.09/ILI/PP 009/10/2017

Berdasarkan Surat Keputusan Dekan Fakultas Ilmu Tarbiyah dan Keguruan UIN Raden Fatah Palembang Nomor : B-2080/Un.09/ILI/PP.009/4/2017, Tanggal 25 April 2017, poin ke 2 bahwa Dosen Pembimbing diberikan hak untuk merevisi judul Skripsi Mahasiswa/i. Maka bersama ini menerangkan bahwa :

Nama : Andri Pratama
NIM : 13250005
Fakultas : Ilmu Tarbiyah dan Keguruan UIN Raden Fatah Palembang
Jurusan : Pendidikan Bahasa Inggris

Atas pertimbangan yang cukup mendasar, maka Skripsi saudara tersebut diadakan perubahan judul sebagai berikut :

Judul Lama : The Correlation between Reading Speed and Academic Achievement of Undergraduate EFL Students of UIN Raden Fatah Palembang .

Judul Baru : The Correlation between English Reading Speed and Reading Comprehension Achievement of English Education Study Program Students of UIN Raden Fatah Palembang .

Demikian Surat Keterangan ini dibuat dengan sebenarnya untuk digunakan sebagaimana mestinya.
