Reviewers' comments:

Reviewer #1: Thank you very much the authors for sending their research work for publication at the Academy of Accounting and Financial Studies Journal. This manuscript reviewed can be published after the consideration of the following review comments suggested.

a) Sporadic grammar errors can be checked and corrected, accordingly.
b) The authors are highly recommended to gather all the seven determined parameters that are effecting to the PROFIT variable, as these are presented at the corresponding seven headings of the "Discussion" section, and to formulate a Table in which Table-rows the positive contribution to the PROFIT variable can be signed as "+", while the negative contribution to the PROFIT variable can be signed as "-", respectively.
c) A literature refresh and strengthening with more English-written papers is highly recommended.

Reviewer #2: this paper is interesting but it has several inconsistencies which needed to be addressed

1) At some instances English is not used.
2) figure 1 shows presence of qualitative heteroskedasticity which author mis-interpreted. For confirmation he should statistical test rather than graph.
3) in table 3 durban watson value is wrongly written. based on the upper and lower limit provided by author the durban watson value shows autocorrelation
4) table 4 also shows non-english words in it.
5) table for regression coefficients is not reported.
6) which estimation approach is used is not provided.
7) in all estimation equations reported the intercept shows it as subscript which is not possible while error term does not have any subscript means error term is constant.
8) references are not in APA or any other standardized format.
9) policy implications are inadequate.
10) author should use correct method of calculating the pairwise multicollinearity which Gujarati has provided.
11) bank names included in the study are missing
12) objective of the study and novelty of the study is missing, there are too many studies available which have estimated the determinants of performance, there should be a thorough discussion what new this study will be doing
13) while increase in ROA is showing decrease in change in profit, means leading to loss.
14) observe the coefficient size they are too high.

Reviewers' comments on the manuscript, which is a matter of opinion or information given or not being. Especially on sections of "Introduction" and "Literature review" have to be re-organized and re-written again in a coherent and meaningful manner. In some text points no sense is making.

b) It is not clear the follow-up of the research conducted per each one of the seven years 2010 up to 2016. There is lack of methodological connectivity of authors' outcomes and the stated research objectives. An aggregated Table of outcomes' co- presentation is apparently needed.

c) Numerical data/variables have to be accompanied by values measured, where it is missing.

d) Citations can be elaborated with more recently published papers, where available and where accessible.

e) The section of "Conclusions" could be creatively expanded by the authors' argumentation upon a wider applicability of their research conclusions to other regional and economics settings worldwide.

Reviewer #3: No need to write PROFIT in capital letters.
Literature review is in capital letters but introduction is not, make it standardized.
Gul, S., Irshad, F., & Zaman, K. (2011) citation is not apa format
In table 2, there should be decimal value rather than comma
First paragraph above table 3, provide reference for the VIF > 10 threshold.
Table 3 is repeated.
See the table of durbin watson test, there should be decimal points rather than comma
In table 5 what is meant by E in following number 5.698E13
Information in table 6 is same as table of durbin watson.
More detailed policy implication needed.
Few references are either incomplete or not in apa format.
